

Bloomfield Record.

S. M. HULIN, Editor and Proprietor.

BLOOMFIELD, N. J., FEB. 27, 1873.

A New Venture.

A new paper, called the Saturday Gazette, has appeared, and the first number is being extensively distributed throughout Bloomfield and Montclair. We in our individual name have received a copy through the Post Office. The general appearance of the paper is creditable, much care, evidently, having been bestowed upon it, with the exception, perhaps, of the proof-reading.

The paper, in regard to the Record, is not strictly a rival or competitor, but rather an independent, notwithstanding which, we ask not to be excused from according to it that courtesy which should exist between newspaper brethren. At the same time we, laying aside all envious or malignant feelings, earnestly protesting against the manifest injustice of circulating and attempting to press this new venture upon the people of Bloomfield and Montclair. We know that its advent is distasteful and unwelcome to many of them. After having actually abandoned the field, and permitted a large portion of our townsmen to subscribe for, and use as an advertising medium, the Bloomfield Record, many of them making their contracts for a year, this paper, under an old management appears and claims support! To say nothing of the injustice to us, is it treating our subscribers in a fair manner to seek to divide a field upon which the Saturday Gazette has no moral claim? If its proprietor claims sympathy and consideration for services rendered in connection with the former semi-monthly paper, we beg to assert that we would have considered ourselves amply remunerated, had we performed such service, by the generous subscriptions of money and liberal patronage bestowed by our townsmen upon that experimental enterprise.

The prospectus of the Bloomfield and Montclair Gazette, so far as subscriptions to the same were concerned, was as signal a failure as the "announcement" of the Record was a success. The latter was not issued until the former had "hung fire" for a week or two. Hence it is apparent that we of the Record cannot be accused of any unfairness or lack of principle in establishing our enterprise.

The Montclair Independent.

A certain feeling of delicacy has prevented us from extensively introducing the Record among our readers in Montclair. We felt that the identity of our paper was in Bloomfield, and that the only claim we could have on Montclair would be but the slight one arising from our publishing in the Record such news as we could obtain, by our correspondence, and weekly mails, necessarily brief. In view of these circumstances, therefore, we did not feel justified in pushing subscriptions as we have done in Bloomfield. To our certain knowledge, however, there is an earnest desire among many citizens of Montclair to have a local paper that shall belong exclusively to that village, committed wholly to her interests and welfare.

The principal, perhaps we should say the only hindrance to the establishment and successful conduct of such an enterprise, is the limited amount of patronage to be derived therefrom. A plan can be adopted which would meet this emergency, we refer to a system of auxiliary printing, or co-operation between Bloomfield and Montclair, at the same time preserving the identity of each. This article is penned particularly for the purpose of bringing this subject to the more extended notice of the people of Montclair, than it is possible to do otherwise. With the type, presses, &c., of the Record, successfully established in Bloomfield, we have facilities to publish a paper in Montclair, which would reduce the current expenses considerably below what they would otherwise be, and by introducing the auxiliary feature, the cost would be still less. This plan is being very extensively practiced elsewhere, and is gaining rapidly in favor in various places.

On this principle of economy we could publish the Montclair Independent and the Bloomfield Record simultaneously. An editorial office would be established in Montclair, and the Independent would appear weekly, on Wednesday or Friday, and the Record in Bloomfield on Thursday, as at present. The same outside articles might appear in each paper, but the local news and editorial matter would be different in each. This would reduce the labor and cost of editing and type-setting about one-third, and thus enable us to establish a self-sustaining local newspaper, belonging exclusively to Montclair. The amount of patronage necessary to support and insure this undertaking would be as follows: 400 subscribers to the Independent at $1.50, 4 columns, or 80 inches, of advertising at the rates now published in the Record. Should this newspaper be published in this manner, it is probable, in view of the rapid growth of Montclair and Bloomfield, that in a year or two the patronage would have increased to such an extent as no longer to render necessary the pursuance of the above plan, but the Independent would become wholly self-sustaining.

We would be pleased to hear from our friends in Montclair upon this subject, and if favorably considered will at once issue the Prospectus, with the view of obtaining subscribers, no subscription to be considered binding unless the whole number, (400) is obtained.

To Our Patrons.

As will be seen by referring to the Record Card, on our first page, a change has been made in the proprietorship of the paper. Mr. J. R. McDivitt withdraws from the Bloomfield Record, and it will in future be conducted by the remaining partner. This involves no change in the editorial management, the present editor having had entire charge of this department from the beginning. In making the change we have been actuated by mutual interests. Mr. McDivitt's large and constantly increasing business outside of his interest in the Record demands and absorbs his entire attention. He retires from the Record with our best wishes for his future prosperity, and a feeling on our part that we have been ably assisted in permanently establishing in Bloomfield an honest, reliable newspaper. We shall endeavor to discharge our duties as editor and proprietor of the Record in a conscientious manner, to the best of our ability, and with a deep sense of gratitude for the generous support already accorded to us, trusting that it will be an incentive to renewed zeal and perseverance in the future.

The Meeting of Monday Evening.

There was an unusually full attendance of our citizens at this meeting, and it was apparent from the outset that business was contemplated. Overcoats were doffed by several gentlemen, who, no doubt, anticipated the importance of what was to be discussed. A good feeling was inaugurated by conciliatory remarks bearing upon the little unpleasantness of last week. This matter being nicely adjusted, the routine of business opened. Mr. C. J. Turner, on behalf of the Committee of Five, presented a bill which had been carefully prepared by Jos. L. Munn, Esq., of Newark, and is in many respects the same as the East Orange Law.

Mr. Turner, by request, read the bill, which is, as a matter of course, voluminous. It provided for making a map of the township, showing the streets, railways, streams, &c.; gave the Town Committee power to lay out streets, with due regard to drainage, existing streets, &c.; the maps are to be open for public inspection for a period of three months, to allow parties interested to inspect them and make suggestions, after which they are to be adopted, with or without alteration, and confirmed, after which it shall not be lawful to open any other streets. The Committee to give notice by advertisement when the maps may be inspected.

Mr. Page thought we were not prepared to adopt this section. He understood that we were to be governed for all future time by the decision of the Town Committee.

Mr. Peete thought we should profit by our past experience, in laying streets. Said, "by all means give the Town Committee power to make streets as they ought to be made."

Mr. Lyon offered an amendment to Sec. 2, making the period of map inspection thirty days instead of three months, which was lost. Sections 1 and 2 were adopted.

Sec. 3, referred to grades, with due regard to water-courses and existing corporations.

Mr. D. Oakes objected, in that it gave the Town Committee power to encroach upon any man's door yard as they saw fit.

Mr. Peete was willing to sacrifice his door yard, if necessary, to have our streets as they ought to be.

The section was almost unanimously adopted.

Sec. 4 was read, giving power to straighten, widen, vacate and extend streets, and was adopted.

Sec. 5 and 6, were also adopted without discussion.

Sec. 7 grants authority to the Town Committee to award compensation for damage incurred and to assess for benefits conferred.

Mr. Lyon objected, suggesting that the Town Committee might not at all times be composed of men competent to assess these damages in an equitable manner.

Mr. J. K. Oakes proposed a Commission for this purpose instead of the Town Committee.

Mr. Turner very lucidly explained the great danger of Commissions.

Dr. McFarlan said, these commissions are never-ending commissions. If you don't like your Town Committee you can put them out at the end of the year.

The amendment was lost.

Mr. D. Oakes suggested, as an amendment, a majority of the whole board instead of four members.

Sec. 7 was adopted with this amendment.

Sec. 8, provides that notice of assessment for damages shall be published in any newspaper published in the town.

Mr. Oakes desired to have it amended so as to oblige the Town Committee to give personal notice where land is taken. The section was adopted without amendment.

Sec. 8 and 9 were also adopted. The latter provides for appeal to the Supreme Court by land owners who may feel aggrieved at the action of the Town Committee in awarding and assessing.

Sec. 10, 11 and 12, were adopted.

Sec. 13 provides that the expense of paving a street shall be incurred by the owners of land upon the same, and that Township Bonds may be issued, bearing 7 per cent. interest. They are not to be sold for less than 90 per cent.

Mr. Oakes was opposed to bonding the township; said we had heretofore obtained railroads and a public school building without bonding.

Several amendments to this section were suggested, of which there were adopted as follows:

one to direct that bonds be redeemable in ten equal installments, so that the whole be paid up in ten years; and also that the amount of the outstanding bonds of the township for improvements shall be limited so as never to exceed the sum of three hundred thousand dollars, except it be authorized by the direct vote of the people.

The remaining sections referred to the paving and curbing of the streets, and they were adopted almost unanimously.

The bill was then authorized to be forwarded to Trenton for enactment, subject to the foregoing amendments.

From our Montclair Correspondent.

(Owing to lack of space a portion of our correspondent's budget will have to be deferred until next week.)

A question of deep interest is the conduct of our town business. Our Town Committee are all honorable men, self-sacrificing and giving their time and energy to the best interests of the town.

They meet monthly, and oftener if necessary, but not to our knowledge do they invite publicity to their doings. In fact the room in which they deliberate will not admit of a very large audience.

All this may be well enough when our village is small and while we have these same honorable and upright men to look after our interests, but may not the time come when others, less scrupulous, may come into power, who would love darkness rather than light, because their deeds are evil, whom, if under the eye of the constantly zealous public, would be constrained to decency of act and manner. For this reason, and this alone, would we urge upon our authorities the necessity of providing more ample accommodations for the people, so that all their deliberations may be guarded against the charge of personal and selfish motives.

The best of us are sometimes warped in our judgment by selfish interest, and while we might be restrained by publicity of action and advocacy, we might, if we could carry a measure so that the influences were not clearly and positively known to the public, sacrifice our judgment and conscience, and allow selfish aims and ends to be our motives of action.

What we need is a Town Hall, or building in which Assessor, Collector, Road Commission, Town Committee, and especially a "lock-up," could be located, and thus afford the customary facilities provided in other towns.

In this building might be provided rooms for a Public Library, Free Reading Room, and Hall for public and free lectures.

Thus all classes and condition of men would be interested.

Montclair Items

A few choice spirits are alive to the moral improvement of the town.

Godfried Gressing lager beer saloon keeper was indicted by the last Grand Jury, and on trial, convicted. He receives his sentence in March.

Carl William B-rsch was also indicted and awaits his trial. Both of their houses were notoriously and criminally disorderly.

Complaint was also made before the Grand Jury against Thomas Rossiter, present lessee and keeper of Wright's Hotel, and notwithstanding the fact that the person making the complaint satisfied most of the Grand Jury that the said Rossiter should be indicted and moreover gave a list of ten or twelve names of persons who would swear that they had bought, paid for and drank liquor in said hotel on the Sabbath, notwithstanding this the Grand Jury did not summon these ten or twelve, or further investigate the matter.

Capt. Hopkins, also of the Mutual Life, has erected the past year an attractive and commodious dwelling on Park street, where he now resides.

Mr. Crane's new house upon Union street has, we understand, been rented for $1350.

Mr. Hart has rented his house upon Mountain Ave. to Mr. Culver of the Midland Railroad Company for $2,000.

The foundation walls of the new depot of the Montclair Railway are going up. It is expected that it will be completed by April 15th. Mr. Henning, to whom much credit is due for his efforts in securing means to build this depot, is chairman of the building committee.

CONGREGATIONAL SOCIETY.—It is expected that the lecture room of the new church will be ready for occupancy early in April. It will be used by the congregation until the large auditorium is finished, which will not probably be sooner than mid-summer.

REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING INTERESTS.—Many new houses are being built in various parts of the village. Mr. George W. Taylor is building a fine house on Ridgewood avenue. On Union street several very tasteful residences have been going up the past year.

Mr. J. H. Pratt, and Mr. C. H. Johnson each have improvements in various stages of progress upon this street. Mr. Elliott of the Mutual Life Insurance Company, of New York, has built upon the same street a nice residence for himself and has recently moved in.

M. E. CHURCH OF MONTCLAIR.—The labors of Rev. James Ayars in this church are productive of much religious interest and fervor. On last Sabbath eighteen persons, all of them young people, were received into the church on probation, and there are indications that the revival will still continue.

Mr. EDWARD MADISON as may be seen by referring to his advertisement, has a very complete and well-selected stock in the stationary line, including the leading magazines. He is also agent for the Bloomfield Record which he keeps on sale, and is authorized to receive Montclair subscriptions to the same, by the year.

Local Column.

Our Roads.

Mr. EDITOR:—Spring is approaching, and the condition of the roads and highways in our township is about to attract our attention, exercise our patience, and in not a few instances become a source of mortification and chagrin. As the snow departs and the frost leaves the ground, the roads and streets will become muddy quagmires more or less deep, according to circumstances, and, by constant use, grow heavier and heavier, until in many places they reach an almost impassable condition. The real estate purchaser from New York, who comes into New Jersey to examine properties, rolling smoothly in his buggy over the Telford pavements of Orange, will be surprised when he turns from them in the direction of Bloomfield, to find his horse floundering through a road, which if he has had any campaign experiences, must forcibly remind him of the army roads in Virginia at the period of the celebrated "mud march." As he proceeds he will find building situations fully equal, if not superior to any in East Orange, almost inaccessible on account of the heaviness of the roads, indeed, so impressed will he be with the contrast in this respect, between the smooth and solid drives of Orange, and the primitive character of the highways in the vicinity of our village, as scarcely to be able to realize the fact that both places are in the same county, and suburbs of the same city. The consequence is, he returns from his tour of examination not by any means prejudiced in favor of Bloomfield improvements. These remarks are not made in any captious spirit, but from a desire to draw attention to the subject of roads in our township, and to acquire for it the consideration so urgently demanded. That in public improvements we are much behind our suburban neighbors is a palpable and incontrovertible fact. It is, or should be, equally apparent, that perfect means of communication with all parts of the township, are of the very first importance, a sine qua non, and the more nearly these means approximate perfection, in a corresponding ratio the prosperity of the place is established and assured. This is a fundamental rule of the remotest antiquity, the roads of the Ancients, such as the celebrated Appian Way of the Romans, and many others were works of durability and magnificence, some of which, at the present day remain almost entire, to prove after the lapse of centuries the excellence of their character. We may therefore safely assume as an axiom that good roads and highways are absolute necessities. The next thing to be considered, is how this great desideratum is to be brought about; for it is one thing to appreciate the importance of reform and another thing to inaugurate that reform.

Unquestionably no road is complete without a perfect system of drainage, the bed must be kept free from standing water, for wherever puddles are formed the ruts are deepened into holes, perilous to wheels and axles. Small stones or rock broken fine, packed closely, covered with layers of coarse sand and gravel, should always be used in preference to six inch boulders hidden under a foot of earth from the gutters. There can be no reasonable excuse offered for using such material, when sandstone gravel is so abundant as it is in this vicinity, and the cost of obtaining and putting it down where required, should not greatly exceed the cost of any other material; but suppose the enhanced expenditure amounted to 50 per cent of the original outlay, is it not better to make the investment now, and once for all to secure such material as will produce a satisfactory roadway, than to keep up a continual drain upon the pockets of the taxpayers for work and material which requires renewing regularly every Spring or Summer? Enough money has been raised and expended in the old way yearly to commence and put down the Telford Pavement, on the terms by which it has been contracted for in one of two of the townships adjoining. At all events we must—whether we are willing to afford the Telford or not—have some change for the better in our roads, or fall behind every township in the county.

ENTERPRISE.

Of Vital Importance to Every Reader of "The Record."

We beg leave to call earnest attention to the fact that an unrighteous attempt is now being made to divert from its proper channel the support and patronage which by honest dealing and hard labor we are justly entitled.

On January 23d, the first number of THE RECORD was published, with the support and cordial approbation of the leading citizens of Bloomfield. From that time until the present moment, abundant success has attended our efforts.

A new paper has now appeared, called the Saturday Gazette, with no fixed identity, having no claim on Bloomfield for support, but rather the condemnation and disapprobation of the mass of her citizens.

DIVISION OF OUR TOWNSHIP.—A meeting of the tax payers of that part of Bloomfield Township north of the Montclair Railway, has been called, the same to take place on Saturday Evening next. The object is to consider the expediency of petitioning the next Legislature for a division of the township. It is proposed to call the same North Bloomfield, and to embrace all that part of the present township north of the Montclair Railway.

GAS.—The main pipes are being delivered from the cars and distributed along our streets. It is expected that the work of laying them will be prosecuted as soon as the frost is out of the ground.

THE CATTLE DISEASE.—Newark and Elizabeth are somewhat alarmed as to the pleuropneumonia which has been prevailing extensively in the vicinity of Elizabeth. It was thought that the approach of winter would abate the evil, but it is said to be spreading rapidly. Much indignation is manifested against a few milk and cow-dealers, and unprincipled butchers who unscrupulously vend milk and meat that is alleged to be diseased. A memorial to the Legislature, looking to the abatement of the evil has been sent in. The Advertiser learns that the matter will be pressed with all possible energy, as those interested are determined to take the diseased animal by the horns and put a stop to its ravages, if possible. There are various opinions regarding the manner in which the disease is spread. Some maintain that it will blow from one farm to another, while others believe that it can only be taken by the healthy animal coming in contact with one diseased, or smelling the horns or hides of those that have died, or the manure that has been dropped. Whatever may be the cause, the whole community is interested in the question and every effort should be made to prevent diseased cattle, meat and milk from coming into market.

WOMEN'S MISSIONARY SOCIETY.—The annual meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society, connected with Rev. Mr. Knox's church, was held last week. The ladies were much encouraged by the success which had attended their efforts, closing this first year of the society's existence. The report of the Treasurer shows that $477 have been paid into its Treasury, and the interest manifested by the ladies of the church, promises increased usefulness in the future.

ARRESTED ON SUSPICION OF MURDER.—On Tuesday James Avery, a peddler living in the vicinity of Caldwell was arrested on complaint of Chas. Berger, suspected of having been the author of the Kohlman murder, near Caldwell last Summer. Justice Hall committed him to the county jail. It is stated that his wife made the statements which led to his arrest.

CONFIRMATION AT CHRIST CHURCH.—Thirteen persons were confirmed Sunday morning last, by the Bishop of the Diocese. The services were largely attended.

CONCERT.—An Old Folks' Concert is to be given in the M. E. Church, Bloomfield, on Wednesday evening next. See advertisement.

TOWN ELECTION.—Our annual town election takes place on Monday, March 10th.

A Prayer Meeting is held every Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, in Friendship Hall, Archdeacon Hotel. All are cordially invited to attend.

The Bloomfield street improvement bill was introduced in the Legislature on Tuesday.

An excess of local matters crowds out most of our General and State news this week.

STATE ITEMS.

The Baxter Steam Engine has achieved a triumph on the Erie Canal of New York State, under a competition for a prize of $100,000. The report of Prof. David M. Greene, the engineer of the commission, shows that three boats only made the necessary three round trips through the canal, resulting as follows, in decimals: The boat "Wm. Newman," averaged speed, 2.72 miles per hour; the Port Byron boat, averaged speed, 2.68 miles per hour; the Wm. Baxter boat (Newark), averaged speed, 3.29 miles per hour, and consumed only half the coal of the best of the other boats. It is probable that Mr. Baxter, the inventor of this popular motor, will pocket the nice sum mentioned above.

Earnest meetings are being held in various parts of the State, advocating a free railroad law. A large meeting was held in Elizabeth last week, and another in Hackensack, on Saturday. The resolutions adopted at the latter meeting say, "that the great danger to the rights of the people, which resulted from the monopoly guaranteed to the Camden & Amboy Company, is tenfold greater when possessed by the Pennsylvania Company, and the disgrace of enduring it is far greater when possessed by a foreign corporation. For New Jersey to be called the State of Camden & Amboy was bad enough; it will be far worse when she gains the title of the State of the Pennsylvania Railroad."

The publisher and editor of the sensational paper called the Echo, were arrested on Monday, on complaint of several citizens of Newark, for publishing and vending an edition of that paper containing language in print of a vulgar and indecent character. They furnished bail in the sum of $1,000 to appear for examination. Messrs. Ward & Tichenor have declined to print the Echo any longer.

Major General W. S. Hancock, commanding the Department of the East, accompanied by General Mitchell, his aide, visited the Soldiers' Home, Newark, on Wednesday, of last week. Gen. Runyon, ex-Senator R. H. Veghte, ex-Governor Ward, ex-Governor Newell, Col. E. H. Wright, and a number of other distinguished gentlemen were also present.

Gen. Hancock found in the Home a number of veterans who had fought under his command to whom he gave a cordial greeting. After the party had passed through the building they proceeded to the Superintendent's quarters, where ex-Governor Ward addressed them. He urged a suitable provision on the part of the Government of the United States toward the Home, and stated that New Jersey, though a small State, had furnished 8,000 men in excess of all calls during the late war, and that New Jersey was the only State which had a Soldiers' Home of its own.

Gen. Hancock made a short speech of approbation, which was greeted with applause, and the party were then entertained by the Superintendent, Major Wackenschaw.

Our Exchanges.

We have received Dexter Smith's paper, for March, published in Boston, devoted to Music, Literature, Art and the Drama. It is published monthly, and contains a choice variety of entertaining matter, including vocal and instrumental music of a high order.

The Herald of Health is a high-toned monthly, devoted to the culture of mind and body. Wood & Holbrook, Publishers, 13 & 15 Light Street, New York. We have received the February number, and among other ably written articles, we have read with interest those on "Tobacco," "California as an Invalid's Resort," "Lessons for Children," &c.

A Girl Who has

The Titusville Herald of a charming young lady named Carrie L. of Warren, this city a short time since, after a long and weary journey, returned home, but arriving at the train disappearing, she started out along the track, walking the entire distance, and at the rate of four miles per hour, until seven o'clock in the evening, when she arrived at Newton, where she took the train, and upon reaching the city, upon reaching the train, she was found to be a girl who has
